A casino host typically determines how much comp (complimentary) you are eligible for based on your level of play and the amount of money you have spent at the casino. This includes factors such as complimentary drinks, room service, and other amenities.

These comps are typically given to high rollers or players who spend a significant amount of money at the casino. The amount of comp you receive is usually proportional to the amount of money you have spent.

For example, if you spend $1000 at the casino, you might receive $50-$100 in comps. If you spend $5000, you might receive $250-$500 in comps.

Comps are a great way to enjoy the casino without spending a lot of money. They can include everything from drinks and food to hotel stays and flights.

If you are a high roller, you can negotiate for even more comps. Some casinos will give you a personal host who will make sure you are always getting the best comps.

Comps are also a great way to thank the casino for your business. If you are a regular player, the casino will want to keep you happy and coming back.

So, if you are looking for a way to enjoy the casino without spending a lot of money, comps are a great option. They are a great way to get the most out of your casino experience.
